

A detailed botanical illustration of a passion fruit vine. The image features large, dark green, heart-shaped leaves with prominent veins. Interspersed among the leaves are several large, white, star-shaped flowers with numerous stamens. Small, green, round fruits are shown at various stages of development, some with yellowing at the top. Numerous small insects, including flies, bees, and butterflies, are depicted interacting with the plant, some on the leaves and others near the flowers and fruits. The entire scene is set against a plain white background.
